

THE BEST EVER DRAWN

That is What Butte is Saying of the Present Panel of Trial Jurors.

TWO BURGLARS CINCED

Commissioners Appointed by the District Court to Appraise the Hopkins Property—The Broads to be Tried To-day.

BUTTE, Jan. 21.—There is every reason to believe that the present panel of trial jurors is the best that has ever been drawn. It is made up for the most part of intelligent business men who, while they will do no man injustice are not infected with a morbid sympathy for criminals and are not to be easily beguiled by flimsy lies and explanations. Close upon the heels of Frank Langdon and William McClung, who were given two years each in Deer Lodge last evening, followed two more criminals this evening. These were John Mahoney and William Hudson, charged with burglary in the night time. They were arrested late last November, immediately after the burglary of the Chicago house. The state's case was very strong, yet as is generally the case, both the defendants took the stand and denied everything in the state's evidence, hoping to create "a reasonable doubt" in the minds of the jurors. But the old jury worked just as poorly as yesterday. The principal witness for the state to-day was a little boy named Walter Siegel, the son of Otto Siegel, one of the proprietors of the Chicago house. Although but 14 years of age and understanding English with difficulty, the little fellow struck everyone as telling a straight-forward story and he was believed. He had been detailed to watch the defendants and two others who appeared suspicious characters. And so he happened to see the whole burglary. Walter saw Mahoney go from one room to another climbing over the partitions between the rooms, as they did not reach up to the ceiling. Walter was prevented from calling out for help by Hudson, who held him, and compelled him to keep still while his accomplices went through the house. Finally the boy saw Mahoney come out of one of the rooms with overcoat under one arm and a package under the other. Other testimony was brought forward to prove that one of the defendants was heard lamenting the fact that they made a rather small haul after all. While the state's evidence was being taken, Judge Lippincott made a plucky fight and did everything possible to shake the witnesses for the prosecution, but his effort was quite fruitless.

Besides the defendants, but one witness was called for the defense. This was William Tait of the Gagnon. His testimony was immaterial, however, only going to show that two days before the burglary had been employed as a helper about the Gagnon, and having hurt his foot, had laid off for a time. The defendants denied altogether too much to have their stories believed. They denied in toto the boy's testimony. They denied important parts of Police Officer Walsh's testimony. Indeed, scarcely any of the state's witnesses escaped the imputation of perjury. In his cross-examination, District Attorney Baldwin adroitly led them to make many statements, the erroneous character of which was manifest.

The case went to the jury about 5 o'clock. They were out a little over an hour. Their only difficulty lay in determining how many years the prisoners should be given. One juror stuck out for 14 years. Three were for two years and the rest stood between. Finally the two year men prevailed and a verdict was given in accordance with their judgment. Judge Lippincott gave a final notice of his intention to move for a new trial, but it is unlikely that any such motion will ever be made. Indeed it is said that the prisoners thought themselves lucky to get off with so light a penalty.

Besides the trial one important order of the court was made appointing John A. Cannon, Charles S. Passmore and James Dineen commissioners to appraise the value of Mrs. Olivia Hopkins' land through which it is desired to put Arizona street. The commissioners will hold their first meeting at 10 a. m. Friday.

To-morrow will take place the trial of the Bradys with William Plunkett. They are charged with having stolen about $350 from a guest in the Key West house.

IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Gus Williams in a Performance That is Sure to Please.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—The Philadelphia Times says of "U and I," which is to appear at Maguire's opera house, beginning Thursday evening:

Gus Williams, the well-known German comedian, and that fine Irish character artist, John T. Kelly, presented at the Chestnut Street theater last evening the musical sketch, entitled "U and I." It is a mélange of wit, of rough dances and special variety features without any great attempt at plot. The main idea is a satire on the life in New York, in which a German and an Irishman, bent on a night's fun, take the leading parts. In the matter of laugh-making the whole performance is a tour de force. The wit, while not all original with the authors, is bright and timely. Point follows point like the flash of diamonds. And excellent as the dialogue is, the actors are just as good or better. Kelly and Williams were veritable cyclones of movement, while their singing and dancing showed of the best. Miss Fannie West made an enchanting sonnette and played her part with exceptional grace. William Courtwright, as the negro janitor, was all the court required, and Harry Kelly, as the policeman, struck the exact mark. Miss Josephine Zella was effective in the more ambitious part of the opera singer and S. G. How was a typical dunder. Altogether "U and I" must be voted a thorough success, so far as creating plenty of fun is concerned, and this was the demonstrated opinion of the large audience of attendants.

Carried to the Grave.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—One of the largest funerals ever held in Butte was that of John Cadigan, this afternoon. At 10 o'clock this morning mass was said at Hibernia hall, Centerville, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon the funeral was held from the same place. The procession was an enormous one, testifying to the great respect and sincere regard of the people of the county for the old citizen. In the lead was a delegation of 50 members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Beside the hearse which conveyed the remains were the pallbearers, Hon. W. A. Clarke, Hon. Martin Maginnis, John Maguire, Dennis Driscoll, Michael McNamara and Dennis Lynch. There were 80 carriages in the procession.

For the Grand Carnival.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—All societies and trades unions in Butte and Anaconda are invited to participate in the grand carnival and street parade to be given in this city next month under the auspices of the Butte Turn Verein. A meeting of the committee in charge will be held at the Caplice building at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Parties desiring further particulars can confer with the committee at that time or can address Prof. Klein, at No. 32 W. Quartz street. There will be a grand masquerade ball in the evening.

IN POLICE COURT.

The Daily Round Up of Drunks, Vags and Secretaries.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—Joseph Jettanque and Eugene Durant, two disreputables of the lowest type, pleaded guilty in the police court to-day to the charge of being pensioners of fallen women. Each one of the "secretaries" was fined $1 and costs.

For assault and battery Charles Gray was fined $5 and costs. Fred Anderson, arrested on complaint of Theodore Yokes who charged him with robbery, was tried for vagrancy. Yokes failed to appear against him and as Anderson acted strangely when taken into custody it was decided to vag him. The effort failed and he was discharged.

Arthur Brown was taxed $1 and costs for abusive language and in default was sent to the street gang.

Mr. Leary, first name unknown, was taxed to pay a fine of $5 and costs for disturbing the peace and was given a job on the streets.

George Bowden was committed in default of $1 and costs, a fine imposed for a simple drunk.

D. Callahan was given a like fine for a like offense.

POOR YON LEE.

Two Customers Teach Him a New Way of Paying Old Debts.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—Yon Lee, a Chinaman with a badly battered face appeared in Judge Muldoon's court this afternoon and asked for a warrant for the arrest of two white men. Lee's story was to the effect that he had been doing washing for a long time for a man residing at the corner of Granite and Montana streets and received repeated "stand offs" when he attempted to collect for his work. A short time before he presented himself in court he had made another effort to collect his bill, and in a rather peremptory manner demanded his money. For this his debtor had assaulted him, and for fear that the first man would not do the thing in proper shape a second had assisted him. A warrant for the two men was issued, but they could not be found.

THE MISSING PUG.

A Number of Citizens of Butte Have Cause to Remember White.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—Ed Mueller is not the only person who is a loser through the dishonesty of White, the ex-convict and alleged pugilist. Since it has become known that he has left the city quite a number of people have been anxious inquiries as to his whereabouts. Their anxiety to learn his address is not for the purpose of sending him polite messages requesting him to "please remit," but simply to enable them to secure his arrest for swindling. A few of the many duped by the big loafer are Ecker & Kinney, Tom Hines and the proprietress of the Eagle, each of whom contributed to his capital in various amounts, the smallest of which is $5. Besides these there are said to be fully a dozen more who have similar cause to remember White for a long time.

C. Rieger. The Iron Rod lode one mile northeast of Norwood by W. E. Little and H. C. Stebbins. The Home Stake lode one mile northwest of Moose City by J. M. Anderson and C. E. Nichols. The Lulu lode one and a half miles west of Clearcut creek by John McKenzie and others. The Survey lode five miles southeast of Butte by J. B. Sawyer and others. The Surprise lode two miles north of Big Hole bridge by J. H. Mitchell and others. The Idaho lode one-fourth of a mile northeast of Gold Hill by Donald Fraser. The State of Montana lode adjoining the North Star lode by John Gordon and Charles Kosanko.

Will Bear Looking After.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—It would probably be well for the police to look into the case of a man who is taking orders for enlarging pictures. The statement is made that the man referred to informed a friend of his that he intended to solicit orders for work and require each person giving him an order to pay in advance part of the price agreed upon, and after securing all the orders possible to leave the city and allow his victims to whistle for their pictures. The man has been in the city only a short time and is said to have formed a strong affection for a woman whom he intends to make the sharer of his ill-gotten money, and with her go to parts unknown as soon as he has worked his game.

Altogether Too Careful.

From the New York Sun. To a noted doctor up town went a well-known New Yorker who is a dyspeptic. "I suffer so," said the citizen, "yet I am very careful of what I eat. I never order a meal to which I do not give the most careful thought, and at home my regimen is the very simplest." The doctor thought for a moment. "Well," said he, "if you are so very careful what you eat and yet you suffer severely, take my advice and stop being so all-fired careful. Sail in and eat good sturdy food, and stop thinking about your stomach. Any man who is as careful as you say you are is bound to make an invalid of himself if he was not one before."

Glass Factories Closed.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 20.—Word was received that nearly a dozen window glass factories have shut down on account of the overstocked market and low prices. The depression is attributed to the failure of the proposed consolidation of the so-called American Glass company.

KILLED IN A SHAFT

Dan Connors Meets His Death in the Anaconda Mine.

HE NEVER MADE A SOUND

The Life Was Crushed Out of Him By the Cage Before He Could Think—Due to His Own Carelessness.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, Jan. 20.—Dan Connors, employed in the Anaconda mine, was instantly killed at 11 o'clock to-night while ascending the shaft.

Connors was employed as car man on the 40-foot level, and it was his business to run cars out to the dump. Just before he was hurt Connors told his partner, William Farrel, that he had forgotten a pair of mits on top and was going up after them. On his way the cage stopped on the 40-foot level. In about two minutes John Cumba, the tender, rang up the cage. After the cage was fairly in motion Connors rashly tried to jump onto the cab from the section, seizing hold of the bar as he did so. It was a terribly careless and unheard of thing and cost him his life. The cage shot up the shaft catching Connors on the lower deck by the breast. He never made a sound. Doubtless the life was crushed out of him before he could think. Some men ran to the dump and under the cage as it was lowered to the 40-foot level they saw Connors' feet dangling down while his face and breast rested on the lower deck. It is a wonder that his body was not terribly mangled, as the space between the cage and the timbering of the shaft was not more than six inches. As it was the life was crushed out of him in the twinkling of an eye. The body was taken off the cage on a plank and brought to the surface there to await the coroner. Shortly after 12 o'clock Coroner Beal held an inquest in the timekeeper's office. Several witnesses were examined, all agreeing that Connors jumped on the cage after it was already in motion, so the jury returned as their verdict that the man's death was due to his own carelessness. Meantime the body was removed to Sherman's undertaking rooms.

Connors was only 19 years of age and came from Ireland last April. He was unmarried and has a brother known as "Big Mike" Connors and several cousins, all of them are employed in the Anaconda.
